Report on "Problem Solving skills, Communication skills, Leadership, Team work & Ethics for Career Growth" on 21-03-2019

Co-ordinator: Mr. Shashikiran S
Assistant Professor,
Dept. of TCE, JNNCE, Shivamogga.

Mrs. Rashmi M Hullamani
Assistant Professor
Dept. of TCE, JNNCE, Shivamogga.

Resource Persons: D S Ramnarayan, CEO and founder of Shree Vatsa Technologies Pvt Ltd., Shivamogga

Report:

- 1) The talk on problem-solving skills aims to explore the individual's level of self-confidence, feelings of control, and the way they approach problems. Problem-solving is a universal job skill that applies to any position and every industry. While everyone is tasked with some form of problem-solving in their workplace, not all employees are good at it.

The Four Stages of Problem-Solving were explained to students

- Define the Problem: Identify the issue that you're dealing with. Observe the problem area closely to form a detailed image of what's wrong. Analyze employee behavior, workplace policies, and operating procedures. Keep your focus on the problem at this point, and resist the urge to define the problem in terms of a solution. For example, "We need to improve training procedures" speaks to the solution more than the problem. "Sales documentation is inconsistent" better defines the issue.
- Brainstorm Alternatives: This is one of the most important stages of problem-solving. It requires a careful balance of creativity and logical thinking. Compare all possible alternatives. Analyze the money, time, staff, and resources necessary for each approach as well as the return that you can expect from various strategies.

- Choose the Best Strategy: Strong decision-making is essential at this stage. After carefully considering all your options, you must select the best strategy for your problem and stick with your choice. Employees who waver or struggle to commit to a single plan don't make good problem solvers because they get stuck at this essential point in the process.
  - Implement Your Solution: Implementation is the critical peak of the problem-solving process. This is where you draw up an action plan, share it with the appropriate personnel, and follow through with your chosen approach.
- 2) Communication within an organization plays a very crucial role in motivating the employees in order to achieve their personal as well as company goals. Hence communication skills are very important especially between the supervisors and the team members in order to improve their job performance and also for the organization success.
  - 3) Leadership is an approach where "acts by persons influence other persons in a shared direction / [common goal]". Students were explained about team leadership and team work.
  - 4) One of the most important things which reflects one's personality is the ethics that he or she possess. As per the ethics definition, ethics are a general set of rules that are important to be followed to be a part of society. Moreover, it guides one to live in the right way in society. These certain rules are common worldwide. These ethical principles are inherited as well as these are learned by the individual from his family's ways of living. Every single individual possesses the same ethics and ethical behaviour in different ways as the culture from which they are born and brought up are different.

Workplace ethics plays an important role in company growth and development.

Workplace ethics are nothing but the rules and procedures that should be carried out in an office by the employer and the employees to maintain a professional company culture and to build a better relationship with their customers by providing better services.

The Participants were asked to form groups of five each and they were given a problem and were asked them to find the solution for the problem. Later they were asked to write the recent film story in English and they were asked read out the story so that they can communicated each other. Next student was a given a group discussion topic, that help them to work in team.

Conclusion:

The overall talk was more benefited to the students and feedback from the student was taken.
