About the STTP

The aim of the STTP is to impart the necessary knowledge in "MATHEMATICAL MODELLING AND NUMERICAL TECHNIQUES IN FLUID MECHANICS". Computational fluid dynamics has become a very important tool in design and development of aerodynamic shapes for automobiles wind mills space vehicles and so on also other application of CFD include design and development of flow channels. Mathematical models, algorithms and numerical simulation tools for the investigation of the human cardiovascular system have received a great impulse in the past years. Also CFD has found applications in production technology like foundry.
